

Blouses Play Many Roles

IN BLOUSES, as in suits, it appears that designers are in a gracious mood and have been generous in giving us a variety of styles, developed in the usual sheer materials or crepe de chine, or wash silks and satins. To these infusions, either plain or changeable, have been added, providing the most promising innovation in the spring styles, with the charm of novelty to favor it. But nothing will rival the beautiful and dainty georgette in the affections of women, except those sheer cotton fabrics that resemble it.

The story of spring blouses therefore opens with those made of georgette, followed by lingerie blouses of voile, bolero, lawn or similar cottons and muslins with a chapter on various other materials and styles. This is a brief summary of a long story, for there is so much variety in the development of blouses that everyday presents something new in details for consideration. Lingerie blouses employ fine tucks, drawn work and other needlework for their decoration, together with the lingerie laces, val, flimsy, Irish crochet and filet. The best of them are hand made, with a considerable number of tailored styles among them having high necks and long sleeves.

The most notable new feature in georgette blouses is the introduction of the "ruffled" style. These are blouses that form their own grille, being cut to extend below the waist line at the front and to form a sash or grille at the sides and back. The georgette blouse is called upon to give the dress its character, transforming a street suit or separate skirt into a formal costume. The blouse pictured is an excellent model for such a purpose, made with a long pelum and handsomely embroidered. Soft crepe de chine is treated in the same way and both these fabrics provide a wonderful medium for lovely and lively colors, but the long pelum is unusual in the styles—an exception to the rule of short blouses for spring.

THIS MAYOR'S LIFE WAS NO PATH OF ROSES

(By Associated Press)
MARION, S. C., March 15.—A policeman's lot, sang the pirate characters in the old operatic satire, is not a happy one; but compared to the job of being mayor of this town the "bobbles" of the song were without a care in the opinion of Palmer W. Johnson, just back to private life after six years as a "public foot-wiper," to use his own expression.

His retirement, Mr. Johnson announced joyfully, was by request. The folks indicated that they didn't want him as mayor again by voting him down; and as editor of the Marion Star the ex-mayor promptly shouted editorially "Glory be."

"One," said Mr. Johnson, commenting on ways of his fellow townsmen during his six years in office and employing the plural tense sacred to editors and kings, "called us a gentleman and was promptly hugged by one who said we were a bum."

"They heaped all the troubles of the universe upon our weary bald pate—and then they lifted all our burdens from us by beating us at election—glory be."

Here are some of the things the ex-mayor noted during his six years as "the public complaint box and foot-wiper."

"We have settled land disputes, family disputes, dog disputes and some unfair accounts."

"We have been insulted, disgusted, spat upon and imposed upon."

"We have locked up culprits for wrongdoing and then evicted them from their place in limbo."

"We have been blamed for stopped owners, blocked streets, heavenly showers, poor telephone service and the present price of cotton."

"We have been cursed for cutting down trees and threatened with death for allowing other trees to stand."

"We have been blacklisted for the best work of one policeman and ostracized for the sterling work of another."

"We have been called a liar until we almost believe it."

"We have become widely known as a grand rascal, an arch criminal, a desperado, a policy-player and a bigamed fool."

"We have been accused of attempting to give the Presbyterian church title to the town hall.

"Mothers accused us of over-running the town with dogs and dog owners blamed us for the deluge of babies."

"One bunch wanted hogs in town while another said there were too many hogs already."

"They cursed our name when most
